

MOOCS and more – a LEA leadership development initiative

What is a MOOC?

Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) are free/low cost online courses from high quality universities worldwide. The main providers are FutureLearn, Coursera and EdX. LEA has curated a list of preferred courses in the areas of organisational leadership, management and leading education innovation.

There is evidence that participants are more likely to complete a MOOC if they have peer support, the organisation is supportive, and the participant has made a personal financial contribution. Therefore, these opportunities will be in place, although a financial contribution is optional.

Note that undertaking these or any other development opportunities may provide credit into university programs recognising microcredentials. For an example of this emerging trend in Higher Education, see Deakin University's DeakinCo <https://www.deakinco.com/>

While some of these courses are situated in contexts other than teaching, the concepts are transferrable to education. There is some evidence that learning concepts in a different context can assist with transfer.

How these will work

Peer support is important for completing a MOOC therefore we are providing an opportunity to connect and discuss your learning with others within Lutheran education. You will also receive a facilitator from LEA who may not necessarily be the expert but rather a co-learner who will facilitate the process.

The steps are:

1. Choose which MOOC(s) you would like to do and register at: <http://www.lutheran.edu.au/2020-leadership-activities/moocs/>
2. We will be in touch with you just before the course starts to provide you with the link to enrol in your chosen course.
3. Engage in the online activities, interacting with other learners internationally.
4. At the end of each week of the MOOC, the facilitator will bring the Lutheran education group together via web conference. This will be an opportunity to discuss ideas, check understandings, and talk about what it might mean for you in your context.

Cost

It is free to do a subject.

If you want to upgrade to sitting assessments and gaining a certificate from FutureLearn, a payment to FutureLearn may be involved. The cost may be at an individual subject level or a 1 year unlimited subscription to most of the subjects available on the FutureLearn platform. LEA will provide $100 reimbursement to any current employee within Lutheran education: who buys the 1 year unlimited package; and gains a certificate; and whose LEA accreditation is current. (As at 12 March 2020 the unlimited package is $399.99 for one year. Check <https://www.futurelearn.com/unlimited> for current pricing).
